As the dark nights and icy weather approach, we wanted to remind you about the importance of road safety for our students. During this time of the year, it is essential that children are extra cautious when crossing roads, especially during the morning and afternoon commute. To ensure their safety, we kindly ask for your assistance in reminding them to follow these road safety guidelines:

1. Use designated crossing points: Encourage your child to use zebra crossings, pelican crossings, or pedestrian traffic lights where available. These designated crossing points are designed to ensure the safest possible passage across the road.
2. Look both ways: Remind your child to always stop, look left, right, and left again before crossing the road. Vehicles can appear when least expected, so it's crucial to double-check for any oncoming traffic.
3. Be visible: As the nights grow darker earlier, it is essential for children to be visible to drivers. Dress them in bright clothing or provide reflective accessories, such as vests or arm bands, to make them more noticeable in low-light conditions.
4. Walk, don't run: Encourage your child to walk across the road instead of running. Running can be dangerous, especially in icy conditions, and may cause them to slip or lose balance.
5. Stay alert: Teach your child to put away any distractions, such as mobile phones or headphones, while crossing the road. Heightened awareness of their surroundings ensures they can react quickly to any unexpected situations.

Please take a few moments to discuss these road safety guidelines with your child.
